'ROUND 'N' 'ROUND

Threading a typewriter is more fun than a circus.
Ask the man who owns one — (a typewriter — not a circus.)

First one starts winding up the old ribbon on one spool.

One always should wind up the wrong end first; that is wind up all the ribbon on the spool that is almost exhausted. Turning the silly crank is so much fun and exercise.

Then the ribbon has to be taken off the dohinkus where the type strikes it.

This is always good clean fun, and well worth the price of admission.

Those two funny doohickies on the dohinkus always stick or tear the old or new ribbon.

Then there's those two thingamajigs that the ribbon passes through. Here is the real test of brains and skill with "endurance beyond belief."

After you have taken the old ribbon off, always grab it by the free end of the ribbon just to see the spool fall to the floor, roll under a desk and tangle the office into a skein of old typewriter ribbon.

Now comes the fun: Putting on the new ribbon. (Here's a swell opportunity for digging up an adage about "on with the new, off with the old" or something, but we won't.)

First, one puts the new spool of ribbon on the right hand side.

Operators who put the ribbon on the spindle correctly the first time are penalized 15 yards for holding and lose one down.

After fuming and fretting—during which time one has an opportunity to revive old, long forgotten cuss words that one uses only on special occasions—the spool is placed on the spindle so that when you turn the crank it will wind up, instead of unwind.

Then you thread (pardon, we meant try) the new ribbon through the dohinkus in the meantime smutting one's fingers with ink and catching one's nail.

Then, after 15 minutes of effort, the typewriter is re-ribboned and you prepare to go back to work.

Then you write two or three words — and find that you've twisted the ribbon.

The best policy to pursue is to have a heart attack or a nervous breakdown.

And when you return to work, maybe the office boy or the janitor or some other rising Edison has threaded the Underwood.

County C. C. To Meet On July 17

MARTINEZ, July 11.—According to an announcement today by R. H. Wight, president of the Contra Costans associated, members of the association and the county chamber of Commerce will meet at the offices of the chamber on July 17.

At this time a formal semi-annual checkup of the work of the committees will be made.

JAIL DOORS THROWN OPEN

LOS ANGELES, July 11.—UP—Otto Sanhuber, so-called "Attie Man" slayer of Fred Oesterreich, wealthy garment maker, was freed from jail today when the district attorney's office agreed that his manslaughter conviction was set aside by the statute of limitations. Sanhuber was convicted of shooting Oesterreich in August, 1922 when the garment maker was quarreling with his wife, Walburga Oesterreich, with whom Sanhuber was infatuated.

In agreeing with the defense motion which freed Sanhuber, Deputy District Attorney Donald McKay told Judge Carlos Hardy that if at a later date it was decided to appeal to a higher court from the arrest of judgment the record of the court must show such intention on the prosecution's part.

Judge Hardy agreed that the records should read to this effect. Sanhuber admitted during his recent trial that he lived in attics of Oesterreich's homes here and in Milwaukee for approximately 18 years in order that he might be near Mrs. Oesterreich.

The widow now faces a murder charge on the grounds that she aided Sanhuber in concealing the killing. She was found locked in a closet and told police her husband had been slain by a burglar.

Sanhuber was tried on a murder charge but the jury brought in a verdict of guilty of manslaughter. The defense immediately argued that all crimes except murder and treason were outlawed after three years if the defendant remained in California as Sanhuber had done after the death of Oesterreich.

BECKER GETS LONG SENTENCE

OAKLAND, July 11.—UP—Burton E. Becker, former sheriff of Alameda county, and Cromwell L. Ormsby, once attorney for Almeda Semple McPherson, were sentenced here today to serve from one to 14 years in San Quentin state penitentiary.

Becker was convicted by a jury on a charge of conspiracy to bribe. An appeal by Ormsby for a new trial on the charges of bribery and conspiracy was denied before he was ordered to prison.

NEGRO SAVED FROM MOB

SHAMROCK, Tex., July 11.—UP—The inflamed determination of a mob to lynch a negro, charged with assaulting and murdering a white woman, was thwarted near here today by the quick action of a west Texas sheriff who dodged across the Oklahoma border and eluded the lynching party.

Mrs. Henry Vaughan, 25, died this afternoon from injuries received here when the negro attacked her after beating her on the head with a piece of gas pipe. Jesse Lee, negro farmhand who is believed to be the murderer, was charged with the killing and the attack.

An armed posse of 200 Wheeler and Collingsworth county citizens armed themselves and started a search for the negro. He was captured at a nearby farm by Sheriff Claude McKinney of Collingsworth county.

Negro Found

Lieut. Ivan Atterbury, Roseburg, Ore., and Staff Sergeant Ralph O. Mills, Saborus, Ill., were dead when rescuers finally dragged them from the flames.

Witnesses said the plane was going too slowly over Luke field. Its heavy nose suddenly pointed downward and it slipped into the spin. Upon hitting the ground, the gasoline tanks exploded, bathing the plane and its occupants with blazing gasoline.

PRESIDENT SCORED BY SOLONS

WASHINGTON, July 11.—UP—President Hoover refused today to open to the senate the secret exchanges leading up to the navy treaty. Anti-treaty leaders replied at once with a charge that Hoover and the state department had sided upon the country once again "Old World secret diplomacy."

Then Senator Norris, Repn., N. counted as a treaty supporter, introduced the first proposed reservation, to make ratification subject to the understanding that no secret papers modified the treaty and no secret agreements would in the future control its construction. Senators Reed, Repn., Pa. a treaty conference delegate, and Allen Reed, Kan., leader of the young guard Republican forces favoring the treaty, immediately denounced the proposal and announced they would fight it.

Scale models of six and eight inch gun turrets and actual shells of the guns which form the center of the treaty controversy, stood in the senate today as the dozen or so "Battalion of Death" treaty opponents again took up most of the session in desperate and vehement attacks.

Hoover in a formal message replied to the senate's resolution of yesterday, asking for all the secret documents. He said publication would constitute a "betrayal of trust" but that any senator could be and several had been, permitted to inspect the papers in confidence.

MARTINEZ, July 11.—With an announcement by the Standard Oil Company of California that for the first time in history, the petroleum industry in California has practically attained a sensible volume of crude oil production, it became known that the Associated Oil company has reduced its gasoline production by upward of 15 per cent.

ON OUTING

Mrs. Bessie Eggert and daughter, Mrs. Clarence Miller, are enjoying a week's outing in the Russian River country.

S. O., SHELL TO RAISE PRICE

Gasoline—20 cents a gallon. This sign will be seen on the majority of service stations today, following the extreme moves of the Standard Oil Company, took last night to halt the war which has been raging past month.

In making its stand, the company declared dealers who buy at wholesale four cents a gallon below the posted price, and that in the future the company would not sell its product to price cutting dealers.

Shell Follows
The Shell Oil company quickly followed Standard's move, making similar prices effective with the opening of business today.

Although no announcements were forthcoming from Richfield, the Associated Oil company, the Texas company or other major producers, it was considered out a matter of hours before the gas war ended as abruptly as it had started. During the past three weeks motorists have been glorifying in gas ranges from 5 to 14 cents, an almost unbelievable price.

No Fairness
A statement from the Standard Oil company read: "It is estimated there are 40,000 dealers on the Pacific Coast. Of these 39,000 are content to 'live and let live.' They take their margin and resell at prices fair to the public. The other 1000 cut the price, not because they believe it is unfair or too high, but because they are determined to get another man's business, regardless of the fairness of the price."

"The Standard Oil company announces as a policy that it will (Continued on Page 8)

FREE GAS IN NORTHWEST

SEATTLE, July 11.—UP—The gas war here has changed to a donation affair.

One downtown service station announced that with every change of oil it would give away free, five gallons of gasoline.

Even that, however, does not seem to be drawing in large crowds. The most of the automobile owners have their tanks so full of gasoline already, taking no chances on the war ending and prices going up, that they haven't any available space to put even free gasoline.

With the one exception, prices at the majority of stations remained at from 8 to 9 1/2 cents a gallon. No immediate relief was in sight for the service station owner, for at least a day or two, it was said.

ANTIOCH LEGION TEAM BEATEN BY LOCALS

The reputed baseball knowledge of the Antioch American Legion nine crumpled before the hard-hitting Richmond Legion aggregation (Native Sons) yesterday in the first of a three game series for the county title.

The local boys swamped the visiting Antioch youngsters with a score of 12 to 2.

Richmond held Antioch scoreless until the ninth inning, when the visitors scored their two lone runs.

One Sided

The game was completely one-sided after the first inning. Richmond scored its first run in the second period. Two runs were netted by the locals in the third, and one point was added to their score in the fourth. The fifth was a big inning, with the Richmond sluggers piling up six more counters. Richmond made its two final runs in the seventh frame.

Gordon Lemon chuckled a very clever ball game for the Native Sons, allowing but six hits, five walks, and striking out ten of the Antioch hitters.

Araque was fairly easy meat for the locals, and was nipped for eleven hits. However, a different tale might have been told if he had been more easily supported by his team mates, who piled up the high total of eleven errors. The Richmond boys played errorless ball.

The second, and perhaps deciding game in the series for the county title will be played at Antioch this afternoon at 2:30. The Richmond team will gather at Memorial hall at 12:30 for transportation to the field of battle.

H. SMITH LEADS IN OPEN GOLF TOURNAMENT

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., July 11.—UP—

"If it isn't one of these darn pros, it's another," Bobby Jones might well have sighed this afternoon, as he wiped his brow, handed over his putter to his caddy at the end of his second round in the National open championship, and found himself still in a tie for second place.

A new figure stepped to the fore at Interlachen today and stepped out there with the confident stride of a coming champion. Young Horton Smith, blonde, smiling Missouri champion, took the lead over the field with an aggregate of 142 for the first 36 holes.

Once again Bobby was forced to be content with second place, tied with "Light Horse" Harry Cooper from Glen Lyle, Ill.

Try as he will, the Atlantan just can't get out ahead of this field of professionals, who would seem to be banded together to dethrone him. And if he does not turn the trick by sundown tomorrow, it will be just too late.

Bobby played cautiously today without plugging up any great reserve against the time when trouble overtook him. As a result, he ran into difficulties on his second nine and carried a 73—one over par.

Horton Smith on the other hand, played brilliantly and was four strokes under par at the close, so that when he, too, encountered trouble out on the last nine, where a welcome breeze swept the rolling fairways and kept him a stroke or two, the young Missourian had enough in reserve to score a timely 70.

With his par of 72 yesterday he put Horton out in front with 2, while Jones, who had 71 on Thursday, totaled 144. Harry Cooper's 144 was compiled of two and rounds of 72 each, par figures, and a very dangerous young man this "light horse" gentleman may yet prove to be.

While a breeze tempered the Minnesota sunshine some-

Cincinnati In Win; Pirates Beat Cardinals

By UNITED PRESS

National League:

Cincinnati won the opening game of the fourth intersectional series of the major league season Friday by defeating the Phillies, 5 to 3, at Philadelphia. The remainder of clubs in both leagues will stage their opening games of the fourth east-west series Saturday.

Behind Red Lucas' steady pitching, the Reds capped their fifth straight game following a sweep of the four-game series with the Chicago Cubs. Lucas allowed eight hits and won his eighth victory of the season to bring his average up to the .500 mark. Lucas hit a home run in the ninth.

In the only other National league game Pittsburgh defeated the St. Louis Cardinals, 6 to 2. Ervin Brame blanked the Cards until the seventh, and won his seventh victory against three defeats. Paul Waner, Pirates' outfielder, had a perfect day at bat, getting three singles and a double in four trips.

American League:

Detroit and Chicago won the only two American league games played Friday. The Tigers overwhelmed Cleveland, 11 to 1, and the White Sox defeating the St. Louis Browns, 5 to 3.

The Tigers collected 18 hits off Clint Brown and Walter Miller, while Hoyt permitted but seven hits.

The White Sox went into a tie for sixth place with the Browns as a result of their victory. Pat Caraway, White Sox rookie southpaw, except the Browns in every inning except the second, and won his fourth victory of the season. Pat has had but one defeat.

Delinquency Is Studied By U. S. Child's Bureau

WASHINGTON, July 11.—UP— Separation and divorce among parents may have a direct relationship to delinquency among children.

The Children's Bureau has traced a definite connection between "lack of normal family life" and child delinquency cases in an analysis of Juvenile Court statistics for 1928.

The bureau reports found that although 71 per cent of the boys with court records were living with both parents at the time their offense was committed, only 52 per cent of the girls had a similar home environment.

This would seem to indicate, these authorities concluded, that the lack of normal family life is a more significant factor in the delinquency of girls than of boys. "The difficulties which bring girls into court are usually more serious in character and more closely related to home conditions than the difficulties of the boys."

The bureau found that only 5 per cent of the delinquent children of both sexes were living with their fathers when their offense was committed. About 12 per cent were living with their mothers.

Of the remainder, on an average of 68 per cent of these erring children of both sexes were living with both of their parents; 5 per cent were living with a mother and stepfather; 2 per cent with a father and stepmother, and 5 per cent in another family home.

The report, which covered 1928 records of 62 courts in widely separated states, also traced to relation between nativity of the parents and delinquency of their children.

What today, the scores did not improve materially. The first round leaders, Macdonald Smith and Tommy Armour, took 75 and 76 respectively.

ODD FELLOWS, ELKS MEET SUNDAY

The long-awaited contest between the Richmond Odd Fellows and Elks will at last be played tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at First street.

This is generally conceded to be the local "battle of the year." The Odd Fellows have been doing excellent work in the City Twilight league, at present being tied for first place. They have won 18 games out of 22 played this year, and they still remain a threat wherever and to whomever they play.

But Sunday's battle will be no one-sided affair by any means. The Elks have been performing nicely on eastbay diamonds in pre-season contests, and are regarded as very probable contenders for this year's Elks baseball title.

The members of both aggregations are among the best-known members of the local baseball fraternity, and are therefore expected to present a neat exhibition of baseball Sunday afternoon for the pleasure of local fans.

The lineups will probably be as follows:

Elks—Carson, Zimmerman, Huzetka, Banducci, O'Rourke, Jensen, Kogler, Pericone, Brendel, Muth, Bonham and Peacock.

Odd Fellows—Matterl, Gordon, Moltoza, Guadoni, Orr, C. Pinto, J. Pinto, Kamb and Rosano.

2000 Fresnans In Swim Class

FRESNO, July 11.—UP— The ancient tradition that seamen make poor swimmers is borne out with a reverse twist here in the San Joaquin valley, where there are few natural swimming resorts.

With only two rivers available for swimming in a territory 200 miles long, it is no uncommon thing to find literally thousands of persons learning to swim in organized classes every summer.

This season the first community swim classes organized by the Red Cross and civic agencies here total more than 2000 members.

The course in swimming lasts a week and is free except for the regular admission price to various plunges and natatoriums. When swimming students are graduated from the elementary training, they are then given the life saving lessons.

That knowledge of swimming is almost a necessity in this valley despite its relative aridity has frequently been demonstrated by drownings in the many irrigation canals that lattice the plains.

During hot weather the residents of both city and country flock to the canals. One canal north of here became so popular that although several miles outside the city limits, city authorities spent large sums of money lining it with concrete to prevent formation of unexpected "drowning" holes and otherwise making it attractive to bathers. Sometimes, "The Bulkhead" as it is known, is filled for a mile with splashing merry-makers.

MOONEY CASE WITNESS IS FOUND

BALTIMORE, July 11.—UP—A man said to be John MacDonald, missing Mooney-Billings case witness, was arrested here tonight and is said to have admitted to detectives that he testified falsely in the trial of the two men in connection with the Preparedness Day bombing in San Francisco in 1916.

The man was being held pending word from San Francisco authorities.

Word of his arrest was sent to the coast city by Chief Inspector George C. Henry, shortly after he was picked upon the streets here.

He is said to have admitted his identity readily. The testimony of MacDonald at the trial was instrumental in the conviction of the two men.

Afterward, he admitted his testimony was not all true, and strenuous efforts were made to have the two prisoners pardoned. The California State Board of Pardons refused this week, however, to recommend the pardon for Mooney and a group seeking to gain his release immediately started a nation wide search for the missing man.

State Motor Club Honored By Three A's

Recognition of the position of the California State Automobile association as the largest of the 1065 A. A. A. motor clubs in the United States was accorded at the recent annual convention of the American Automobile association by the naming of two of the State Association's officials to high positions on the governing body of the nation-wide motoring organization. P. J. Walker of Oakland was elected a vice president of the American Automobile association and Percy E. Towne of San Francisco was named a member of the executive committee. Both Walker and Towne are former presidents of the State Automobile association and members of its present board of directors.

The California State Automobile association, with a membership now close to the 95,000 mark, has for years been the largest and the strongest A. A. A. affiliated club in the country. Its proportion of membership to registration in its territory also leads other A. A. A. clubs.

Thos. P. Hnury of Detroit, was reelected for his eighth term as president of the American Automobile association, at its twenty-eighth annual convention at Asheville, North Carolina. Vice-presidents elected by the convention were as follows:

Charles M. Hayes, Chicago; S. Edward Gable, Lancaster, Pa.; L. B. Timmerman, Lima, Ohio; John H. Wright, Jamestown, N. Y.; F. H. Gates, Derby, Conn.; E. E. Robinson, Charleston, S. C.; and P. J. Walker, San Francisco.

Charles C. Jones, secretary of the Ohio State Automobile association, was re-elected for the eighth term as secretary of the nationwide motoring body, while George W. White, of Washington, D. C. who has served as treasurer for several years, was again selected for this post.

FLEAGLE PALS TO HANG IN WEEK

CANON CITY, Colo., July 11.—UP—The death-dealing apparatus at the state prison here will be overhauled in the next few days for the double execution of Howard Royston and George Abshier next week, accomplices of Ralph Fleagle in the four Lamar bank robbery murders.

Royston and Abshier were returned to their cells in death house today after the hanging last night of Fleagle.

Both spoke admiringly of their leader for the manner in which he went to his death without a qualm.

"Well, he played us a dirty trick," said Royston, six foot, four inch member of the outlaw gang, "but it's not the same here without him."

The gray-haired bandit chieftain brought about the arrest and conviction of Royston and Abshier through his confession, which he assertedly made on the promise of the state that he would be given a life sentence.

Before he died Fleagle asked and received the forgiveness of his former pals for "peaching on them."

"He had 'guts' all right," said Abshier, "but he certainly pulled a bad one on us. I'm going to walk in there straight up, too."

HOME COMEDY NOW AT THE FOX HERE

Who has ever considered the tempo, the rhythmic rise and fall, or the life current in the typical American home?

Surely there lies in this subject a fertile field for the ingenuity of some of our musical composers who affect the "modern manner."

Assume, if you are in the assuming mood, that one of these composers had witnessed the Fox Movietone's all talking feature based on the successful stage play "The Family Upstairs" and directed by Hamilton McFadden.

What could not our musical genius do through a tenal interpretation of just one day in the life of the Haller family?

The composition might open, perhaps with muted brass indicating the regular snores of "old reliable" Joe Haller, portrayed by William Collier, Sr., "head" of the family. Then the tinkle of a triangle, stimulating an alarm clock. Rasping strings, high pitched, as young Willie Haller, Charles Eaton's role is yanked from bed by his dad.

Querulous flute would indicate that Mrs. Haller, Elizabeth Patterson's interpretation is arousing her youngest daughter, Charlotte Henry recently of the Broadway stage. Sweep of enchanting music from the strings heralds the descent to the communal breakfast of lovely Louise Haller in the winning hands of Marguerite Churchill, eldest of the family and sweetheart of Dick Grant, assayed by none other than Rex Bell.

And so it would go. Piano discords a few moments later might indicate that Charlotte is busy with her enforced "practicing." The music might dwindle to a crescendo in the evening when Papa Haller can't find the evening paper!

Pa Haller in this feature which is booked for the Fox-California theater today only, discovers that folks in this world are anxious to carry gossip—about others. He receives the surprise of his life one day upon arriving at home with news to delight the family—only to hear the story reverberating thru-out the neighborhood.

And instead of being congratulated for his good luck, the family is only interested in getting as much of his newly acquired increase away from him. His son decides to give up all thoughts of getting a job, while his youngest daughter advocates a player piano so as to avoid practicing.

Also on the program is a Lloyd Hamilton comedy entitled "Camera Shy."

DR. FU MANCHU RETURNS TO THE FOX

Those who enjoy their mystery thrills served up in spine-chilling fashion, will certainly get an eye-ful and earful of entertainment from "The Return of Dr. Fu Manchu," Paramount's highly diverting drama at the Fox California tomorrow.

The production is based on an original story by Sax Rohmer and is a sequel to the now famous thriller, "The Mysterious Dr. Fu Manchu," in which Warner Oland established himself as a talking picture genius with his portrayal of the central character. The clever "bad man" of the flickers is again seen as the insidious and conspiring doctor in "The Return of Dr. Fu Manchu," He is supported by the same leading players who were seen in the first picture — O. P. Heggie, the King Louis XI of "The Vagabond King," Jean Arthur, sweetheart of "Buddy" Rogers in "Half Way to Heaven," and "Young Eagles" Neil Hamilton, romantic lead of "The Kibitzer," and William Austin, English character comic of "Sweetie."

For the benefit of those who might have thought Dr. Fu Manchu a dead one after taking the poison in "The Mysterious Dr. Fu Manchu," it must be explained that the scheming doctor is a crafty Oriental and that he is a hard man to "kill off." Audiences may have THOUGHT he killed himself in the first picture, but those who see the second one will learn that no such self-inflicted penalty took place, and they will learn WHY.

Rowland V. Lee, director of "The Return of Dr. Fu Manchu" was also the director of "The Mysterious Dr. Fu Manchu." The screen adapters, Florence Ryerson and Lloyd Corrigan were also the adapters of the first "Manchu" production.

Fox Movietone News and a talking comedy, "Weak But Willing" are also shown on the same bill.

And then, despite flame and smoke, he dashed back into his kitchen to rescue a pork roast that was the cause of the trouble.

MOTHER LOSES FIGHT FOR BABY

SAN FRANCISCO, July 11.—UP—Mrs. Bertha Higdon, wife of a Bloomfield school teacher lost the eight weeks old baby girl she had claimed as her own in police court here today.

In a dramatic session, Mrs. Higdon admitted that Mrs. Ruth Smith of San Francisco was the real mother of the baby.

Judge George Steiner had called an advisory jury of mothers but they were not needed when Mrs. Higdon made her admission.

The infant was taken from the arms of Mrs. Higdon and given to the mother against sobbing pleas by Mrs. Higdon who claimed she would appeal to a higher court to regain custody of the baby.

Judge Steiner dismissed charges of kidnapping against Mrs. Higdon.

The baby was given away at birth, Mrs. Smith, who explained she had been afraid she could not care for it but she later changed her mind and asked police aid in gaining return of the child.

BERKELEY, July 11.—UP—Destruction of 11 wood-frame "temporary" buildings used by the various life science departments at the University of California will soon be under way. The wrecking of these buildings is made possible by the completion of the new Life Science building.

The new building which was recently constructed at a cost of $2,000,000 is the largest structure for the exclusive use of academic purposes in the United States. It is five stories in height and has a floor area of 321,000 square feet, and provides 60 percent more space than all of the 11 buildings combined.

GLENDORA, July 11.—UP—Stylish clothes may be worn now by the young people of the Dunkers church here, but they may not bob their hair, according to W. K. Conner, pastor of the church.

"However, if our young people want to dress like the young people of other denominations, there is no objection, so long as they do not go to extremes. My own daughter, a La Verne college student, dresses like the other college girls."

Bobbed hair is not permitted by the pastor, who takes his stand upon a Biblical injunction.

UNIFORM CODE FOR TRAFFIC URGED

WASHINGTON, July 11.—Removal of divergencies in motor traffic laws and regulations between states and cities through the adoption of uniform vehicular laws ordinances and driving practices, was urged all of the states, as well as cities and communities, by the third National Conference on Street and Highway Safety.

The conference adopted with few important changes the Uniform Vehicle Code sponsored by the second conference in 1926. This code has already been adopted in whole or in substantial part by approximately half of the states, while many of the cities have adopted all or parts of the model municipal traffic ordinance, which provides for regulation of street traffic in cities and towns.

In addition, the conference urged the adoption of uniform road and street traffic signs throughout the country, particularly as they relate to highway intersections, railway grade crossings, and other hazards on the roads.

The conference pointed out that in many respects, such as rules of the road and the wording and meaning of traffic signs, complete uniformity of laws and ordinances throughout the country is of paramount importance.

Acceptance of the principal of uniformity, it was pointed out, will go far toward reducing the toll of deaths, injuries and traffic accidents, which are on a steady increase.

The conference said:

"Substantial uniformity is desirable to assure an effective and harmonious system throughout the country and to facilitate understanding by the highway user of the requirements of any state or locality in which he may find himself."

The code consists of a uniform measure for the registration of motor vehicles; an act for the certification of title and ownership of vehicles; a measure for licensing all drivers of motor vehicles after examination and tests as to knowledge of the operating rules and ability to handle a vehicle; a uniform act regulating traffic and driving practice on the highways, and a model municipal ordinance for enactment by cities and towns covering the features of local regulation and control.

In addition, the conference recommended a standard system of street and highway traffic signs, signals and markings which had been approved by engineering authorities and covering safety factors, parking rules and driving practices.

The uniform code and the model ordinance represent the effort of the conference to promote the establishment of adequate agencies for the administration and enforcement of traffic laws and regulations, and at the same time, make it easier for the individual motorist to obey the laws and regulations, and for the pedestrian to avoid the danger of accidents.

The conference in discussing uniform laws and uniform enforcement to be applied in part by state administrative machinery and the state courts and in part by the local authorities. The necessary special traffic control and traffic patrol police should be provided, and the regular police should cooperate in traffic enforcement.

"Provision should be made for prompt and thorough collection of evidence and investigation of accidents; for the proper preparation of traffic cases for trial, for special traffic courts or special traffic sessions of general courts, and for traffic violation bureaus with a schedule of penalties for disposing of minor infractions, so as to give the courts more time to deal adequately with more serious cases.

"There should be uniform permanent records of all convictions of traffic violations and traffic accidents; of suspensions and revocations of operator licenses; and the exchange of detailed information between jurisdictions as to suspensions and revocations of licenses, and convictions for serious traffic offenses.

"Neither the traffic officers nor the court judges should receive any fees from the money collected from traffic convictions."

While it was admitted that the great majority of drivers of motor vehicles—in some cities as high as 80 percent—are never involved in serious traffic offenses, yet the need of education among those who are charged with offenses, and of instilling public respect in general for traffic laws and regulations, was pointed out by the conference.

On this point the conference said:

"The courts, the prosecuting attorneys and the police through vigorous enforcement and even-hand-

Bears Not Warred On Says Warden

BILLINGS, Mont., July 11.—UP—"Even as the 'arm of the law' seeks certain humans, so do government hunters seek certain bears. There's no more intent to slay all bears than there is to kill all humans."

In this graphic manner, R. E. Bateman, head of the predatory animal control in Montana, spiked rumors that the government had declared war on all bruins. Sheep killings, Bateman explained, get their start from consuming sheep carcasses. After feeding on dead animals for a time, the bruins acquire a taste for mutton which they carry to the extreme by charging bands of sheep.

Intersections, and elsewhere, is under supervision of such general traffic police."

It was pointed out by the conference that adoption by all of the states of the uniform code, and model ordinance provisions relating to rights and duties of pedestrians, and enforcement and education along the same line, would unquestionably contribute to a reduction of accidents and injuries among people on foot as well as occupants of motor vehicles.

Adoption Urged

"The same consideration indicates that, in examinations for licensing of operators and chauffeurs, test should be made of the working knowledge of applicants as to the rules and regulations governing traffic at grade crossings and highway intersections.

"Police having general authority over street and highway traffic should recognize that the function of railroad crossing watchmen is limited to stopping traffic on the approach of trains, and that in other respects the compliance of the highway users with the traffic laws and regulations at grade crossings, as well as at highway

152 INJURED IN INDIAN RIOTS

BOMBAY, India, July 11.—UP—Police, lustily swinging big sticks, beat off wave after wave of dogged Indian congress adherents who sought to march thru the city streets today in defiance of a regulation banning the demonstration.

Estimates placed the casualties at 250 during the clashes.

A huge crowd witnessed the charges, first by the police, then by the demonstrators, as they surged back and forth in a mass.

No less than 20 "attacks" were made by the Indians among the volunteers, an organization sponsored by the All-India congress, semi-military in character.

They formed in groups and marched from the main procession, halted by the police, up to the police lines. There they refused to halt and the police then wielded their lathis or big sticks, knocking the volunteers right and left.

For three hours the struggle continued, the volunteers scattered by the police only to gather again or to have others take their places in a style of "fighting" now typical of these demonstrations. The volunteers passively received the blows and many lay still where they fell.

The procession had been organized to honor several Garhwal soldiers, recently convicted by a court martial. The authorities banned the demonstration and the clash occurred when the volunteers sought to parade anyway.

CALLS mean just nothing at all compared with what they did formerly. It's one of the most significant of all the changes this period has brought in that this is so, and that in this year of grace 1930, the formal call, which used to be one of the most delightful and important factors in social life, should have fallen out of the curriculum.

Not that calls are not in order now. They are, and certain occasions demand just as insistently as ever that calls be made, but the rules concerning them have undergone considerable change. For instance, the receiving day has faded into the past—or practically. It went along with flowing sleeves and berthas and frills, but all of these have come back into fashion again, so it may be the "at home" day may stage a return.

Until that time, however, one calls upon a bride, but the bride never takes the initiative. She waits until she has received a call, then returns it, and invariably, if she is correct, and of course she is, within two weeks. Moreover, one calls upon a bride within a few days after she has returned from her honeymoon. On the part of the wedding guests this call is a duty not to be overlooked upon any excuse. Also, these guests call upon the bride's mother some time within three weeks of the wedding date.

The rule concerning dinner calls or calls upon the hostess after any really formal party is another that is inconsistent even in these days of comparative informality, whether the invitation has been accepted or not. These calls should be made promptly. To delay is almost as much a breach of the politeness code as to neglect the call altogether. And any call should be returned within two weeks. If it isn't, the inference is that continuance of the acquaintanceship is not desired, which, of course, is embarrassing to the affronted, especially if the two are likely to meet.

You must call upon any of your friends who are bereaved both before and after the funeral, but unless you are an intimate the call before is merely to leave cards and to express sympathy. Afterward the call is to offer condolence and each call should be of the briefest. These calls are always difficult. There is so little to be said. Personally, the necessity for a call of condolence always brings to my mind:

"Condole if you will—I can bear it."
"It's a well-meant aim of breath."
Put not all the consoling since Adam
Has made death other than death."

A Tea Time Story

Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1930

PIERROT and Pierrette had been traveling with an unsuccessful road show around Christmas-time, and here they were now, the poor troupers, stranded in the midst of winter in a miserable little hamlet. The room in which they lived was poor and cold, the little fire burning in the grate unable to contend against the icy drafts that came in through the ill-fitting window panes and the cracks in the doors, and after their very meager meal, Pierrette sat there shivering, her face pale, her little nose looking pinched and blue with the cold.

"I'm freezing, Pierrot," she said.
"Let me put this blanket around you," he advised tenderly.
"It is so thin, it does not give any warmth," complained little Pierrette.
"Then take my coat, my love."

"Couldn't we possibly put more coal on the fire, Pierrot? This measly little flame does not warm even the tips of my fingers."

"There is no more coal, my little one. I swept together the last shovelful to start this fire."

"I can't stand it any more. I am so icy, so miserable," sobbed the little dancer.

"Well, then, there is only one thing to do," decided Pierrot. "Here, take your shawl, bundle up in it and come with me." And he took his companion by the hand and led her out in the frosty and windy evening.

"Now come on," he called when they were on the street. "Hop, jump, race, pierouette. Again, hop, jump, and again, my love. Dance, whirl, hop and jump, race and pierouette for the night, the wind and the stars."

Pierrette obeyed the strange commands, and after a few moments her pale face became rosy from the kiss of the wind as well as from the strenuous exercise, her stiff limbs grew warmer and more supple, the blood coursed more quickly through her veins, the gloominess seemed to lift a bit from her sad and worried heart.

"Now up the hill here," called Pierrot. "Quick, my love, show me all your art, let me see your prettiest tricks."

At last they returned, laughing, out of breath, and beautifully tired to their little room, which now seemed much warmer than before and even the measly fire had gained in glow and comfort. Pierrette, who had been certain before that she could not close her eyes in the icy room, was now equally sure that she would sleep like a child after all the racing and running she had done, and she kissed Pierrot a tender good night.

"Whatever put that silly idea in your head?" she asked Pierrot.

"My love is a troupier has taught me this," he answered. "Whenever you find that you cannot possibly escape your troubles and protect yourself against them, the only thing to do is to go out and meet them, and they will subjugate you into action."

And as we are all poor troupers on the stage of life we might well profit from this wisdom.

A DISH A DAY

Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1930

During summer months many housewives cut down their baking as much as possible, but when afternoon tea time comes, or when you are packing a picnic basket, the fare seems frugal if you haven't a few home-made cookies or tarts.

Since there are many varieties of cookies that can be made in little time and with very little effort, it is a hard-hearted housewife who won't provide them.

Brambles are a particularly good dessert for children, and they include healthful and nourishing dates—a food dietitian and even

KAREN HOLLIS whose praises are sung because they are crisp and can be easily packed without danger of crushing.

BRAMBLES
Crust:
2 cups flour
9 tablespoons shortening
1/4 teaspoon salt
1-3 to 1/2 cup water

Filling
1 cup (1/2 package) dates, sliced
1/2 cup nut meats, chopped
2 tablespoons orange juice
2 tablespoons marmalade

Mix and sift the flour and salt and cut in shortening with knives. Add the water, a little at a time, until the mixture forms a stiff dough. Roll out to thickness of one-eighth inch and cut into rounds with a cookie cutter. Mix dates, nuts, marmalade and orange juice and place a spoonful of the mixture on one side of each round of pastry. Moisten the edges of the pastry with water and fold over the filling, pressing the edges together firmly. Place in a shallow buttered pan and bake in hot oven (375 degrees) for about fifteen minutes. This recipe will make two dozen small turnovers.

Another delectable picnic or afternoon tea delicacy is peanut butter macaroons. These are so simple to make that they are a favorite with children who are just learning to cook. These macaroons keep fresh for a week or ten days.

PEANUT BUTTER MACAROONS
1 cup peanut butter
3 eggs whites
1 cup flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1/4 teaspoon salt

Beat the egg whites stiff and blend in the peanut butter, which has been worked until soft and flavored with almond. Fold in the flour, to which nutmeg and baking powder have been added. Cut off with a spoon into small mounds and bake in a shallow pan for twenty minutes in a moderate oven.

Modernizing the Home

Decoration of the Office Home

By Alma Zaiss

Dear Miss Zaiss:

I have found your articles on home decoration most interesting and am wondering whether you would be able to help me with another little problem that has just come up—that is, office decoration.

We are fitting up three private offices and have intentions of furnishing them in a rather elegant, but none the less simple fashion. Could you suggest a color scheme which would be subdued but not too dull? We are thinking of carpeting the entire suite and I am a bit puzzled as to what would be the best neutral shade to use. I am not very partial to the brown or dark beige tones.

Should this be a bit out of your line, perhaps you could suggest to me where I might find the information I am seeking.

(Miss J. J.)

Business Rooms May Be as Beautiful as One's Dwelling

Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1930

WE CANNOT recall the famous old baristers' rooms of England, or the handsome quarters occupied by bankers since the advent of banks, without realizing that for centuries there have been beautiful offices. But once we leave the executive section and pursue the point into general working rooms, we are sharply aware of the fact that not until today—in our own generation—has it become popular to plan attractive surroundings for the rank and file.

Being of a romantic nature, we should like to say that women's invasion of the business field is largely responsible for the movement. (A nice tale could be spun about the gentle influence of woman's good taste and sense of artistic arrangement.)

But truth compels a somewhat different story. Pride of possession and the psychologist's proof that more and better work can be accomplished in rooms that stimulate the imagination than in dull ones are reasons which come much closer to the mark.

Another interesting sidelight on the subject is the trend toward purely modern schemes. Simple, practical, severe in line and discreet in coloring, when well done the modernistic office seems to strike precisely the right note in decoration, and the new theme is being used with ever increasing favor.

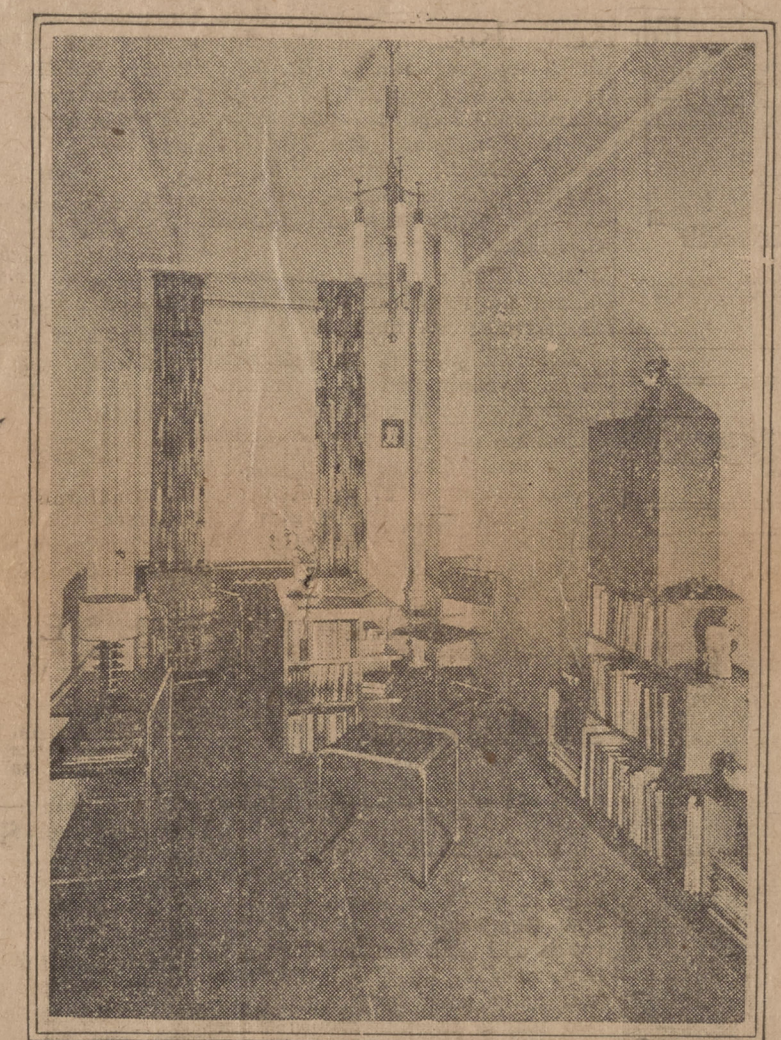

Miss J. has not asked for a modern treatment for the three offices which are to be furnished in elegant but simple fashion, but we should like to outline such a scheme for her problem...and follow it with period suggestions which may be used if thumbs are turned down on our first choice.

No dimensions or floor plans have been given, which makes it impossible to give complete recommendations for each room. We can, however, make suggestions that may be worked out with nice variations for the individual, and so result in one harmonious general scheme.

Miss J. wants a subdued color scheme, but does not care for brown or black beige tones. Then why not have light beige, gray and black? It is a combination which is nicely neutral without being monotonous.

If the offices are not too light and sunny, we may use a two-toned beige rug for the floor, having light beige for the center and darker shades in the border. And let us have something different from the usual painted office walls...at least for the most important of the three rooms. With the beige and gray scheme a very smart background can be achieved with squares of Japanese woodblock paper which comes in tones of straw and silver.

For the large room modern indirect lighting mounted close to the ceiling and carried around the corners of the room could be installed at no greater expense than the price of good lighting fixtures. It is far more practical than ceiling or drop lighting and has the added advantage of being new.

On the question of draperies it should be remembered that office curtains should never be blatant. In these rooms we should use a modern fabric of rather conservative design, and center the color interest around the sofa and chairs which we should like to see covered with copper or henna-colored leather.

The usual office windows are far too ordinary for the dignified Jacobean scheme, and if possible should be modified by putting in false casement windows with leaded glass panes. For floor covering we should use a soft Venetian-red carpet or one of grayish green, and have the sofa and chair upholstered in harmonizing red or green leather. Crewelwork curtains or overdraperies of chintz or linen having a Jacobean pattern would be most suitable for this scheme which can be richly colored without being the least bit gay.

We can hardly visualize the early English room without a fireplace, regardless of the fact that few modern offices have them. So perhaps if we want to obtain the ideal for Miss J. we shall have to install an electric log hearth, which can be given a most lifelike appearance by adding a few charred or half-burned sticks and a handful of ashes over the artificial foundation.

The background of the office that is furnished in good taste is always simple and dignified, free of applied ornamentation. But a nice opportunity to introduce color and interest is provided by the accessories—such utilitarian things as telephone books and portfolios, ash trays, desk pads, scrap baskets, writing tools and pens for greens and ivy. Each should be considered carefully for its relation to the room as a whole. And if Miss J. collects these lesser articles with an eye for their suitability—the scheme determined upon she will have rendered the best possible service to her office, whether its plan of decoration be modern, period or conventional.

If Miss J.'s office companions do not agree upon the modern plan, then the next best suggestion is an early English or Jacobean scheme which should, of course, include wood paneled walls for the large room. In the interest of economy, however, it is possible to get a composition known as timbertone...a plastic material which is made of cement, but looks exactly like wood paneling. The two smaller offices may have plain painted walls.

Modern woods offer a dozen interesting chances for unusual contrast. A combination of walnut, golden pine and ebony would be very effective for the large desk and cabinet is another modern wood which is elegant in appearance...and not expensive. In the important office there should be one fine, large modern painting which may introduce definite contrasting color. Bookshelves (if any) should be modernistic, with nooks for a few decorative objects set at interesting angles among the various colored books.

In the two smaller offices the same general scheme may be used with slight changes for the sake of variety. The walls may be painted in harmony with the woodblock paper used in the larger room, and furniture may include several modern metal pieces with black formula or bakelite arm rests and table tops. Different, but harmonizing fabrics may be used at the windows—if they are not seen at a glance in conjunction with those in the larger office.

If the offices are not too light and sunny, we may use a two-toned beige rug for the floor, having light beige for the center and darker shades in the border. And let us have something different from the usual painted office walls...at least for the most important of the three rooms. With the beige and gray scheme a very smart background can be achieved with squares of Japanese woodblock paper which comes in tones of straw and silver.

For the large room modern indirect lighting mounted close to the ceiling and carried around the corners of the room could be installed at no greater expense than the price of good lighting fixtures. It is far more practical than ceiling or drop lighting and has the added advantage of being new.

On the question of draperies it should be remembered that office curtains should never be blatant. In these rooms we should use a modern fabric of rather conservative design, and center the color interest around the sofa and chairs which we should like to see covered with copper or henna-colored leather.

The usual office windows are far too ordinary for the dignified Jacobean scheme, and if possible should be modified by putting in false casement windows with leaded glass panes. For floor covering we should use a soft Venetian-red carpet or one of grayish green, and have the sofa and chair upholstered in harmonizing red or green leather. Crewelwork curtains or overdraperies of chintz or linen having a Jacobean pattern would be most suitable for this scheme which can be richly colored without being the least bit gay.

We can hardly visualize the early English room without a fireplace, regardless of the fact that few modern offices have them. So perhaps if we want to obtain the ideal for Miss J. we shall have to install an electric log hearth, which can be given a most lifelike appearance by adding a few charred or half-burned sticks and a handful of ashes over the artificial foundation.

The background of the office that is furnished in good taste is always simple and dignified, free of applied ornamentation. But a nice opportunity to introduce color and interest is provided by the accessories—such utilitarian things as telephone books and portfolios, ash trays, desk pads, scrap baskets, writing tools and pens for greens and ivy. Each should be considered carefully for its relation to the room as a whole. And if Miss J. collects these lesser articles with an eye for their suitability—the scheme determined upon she will have rendered the best possible service to her office, whether its plan of decoration be modern, period or conventional.

If Miss J.'s office companions do not agree upon the modern plan, then the next best suggestion is an early English or Jacobean scheme which should, of course, include wood paneled walls for the large room. In the interest of economy, however, it is possible to get a composition known as timbertone...a plastic material which is made of cement, but looks exactly like wood paneling. The two smaller offices may have plain painted walls.

Let's Take the "Cure"

JUST about this time of year, or earlier, our sisters on the other side of the Big Pond take themselves off for a beauty vacation. Off to a spot of green where curative waters spout from the earth and where nature provides "hot" baths ready made; where the hotel menu is a diet list and the smart things to do are the healthful things to do—like hiking and mountain climbing, for instance. All of which is called a "cure." And a fashionable activity it is, too.

Some American women are given to the practice, to be sure, but it is not nearly so universal a custom as it is on the Continent, and cause most of us here to look on with a certain amount of surprise.

Nevertheless this is a long custom both from the point of view of health and beauty. It is a fact that the practice of adopting the custom of the Continent is not new. You can take a "cure" at a week-end or a week, whether you are a wife whose husband is away on a business strongly advise that you do take such a "cure" at the beginning of each changing season. Here are a few suggestions as to how you will proceed.

First of all, make up a schedule for yourself. This will include a health culture menu to take care of each meal; a rising hour; a period for hiking, swimming or whatever form of outdoor exercise you may prefer; a rest period to follow the exercise; a variety of baths, and a retiring period.

The menu will exclude red meats and will include only the following drinks: Milk, fruit juices, vegetable liquors, an occasional cup of chocolate, and just about twice as much water as the average person drinks daily. You must get water with a mineral water and cause most of us here to look on with a certain amount of surprise.

Next, we mean to take a bath one day a week, a steam bath and so forth. Also, at most drug stores you can get a pine bath tablet. Also, violet ammonia water makes a bath!

—and look—100 in you can get a bath! Then the surprise

Oh, Go

"D AD, why do you do that?" "Why do you do that?" "Yes, we're lumbia, happy land, lumbia land! Why do you do that?"

"Oh, 'hail' means 'something like hello.' 'Yes, I guess so.' 'Why do we tell Columbia hello?' 'Oh, go to bed.'"

With the closer underarm fit of dresses, it is quite necessary to use perspiration preventives or wear dress shields, and frequent cleaning of the dresses is essential to make them sanitary. Then, too, perspiration is absorbed into the fabric and in time will destroy it unless it is completely removed by frequent cleansing.

Old-Time Prints
NOW that Currier and Ives prints are being thoroughly reintroduced to the public they are considered very smart with Early and Federal American furniture. The mellow, well-selected print is most attractive.

Clipper ships and Western scenes like the emigrant train approaching the Rockies are very desirable. Scenes of fire, such as the burning of Richmond, are rather gory with their application of red flames, while the woolly looking white kittens without anatomy do not lend themselves well to the Colonial maple or the Early American room. A sleekly well-groomed print of race horses solves the question of how to decorate the walls of the man's room.

Protect the Silver
THERE is little inclination on the part of mistress or maid to spend an hour on a hot summer's day laboriously polishing the flat silver. Yet nothing is so distressing to the hostess as to find tarnish on the prongs of a fork—or on some other piece—at the last moment.

Guard against such an annoyance by wrapping the silver in white tissue, which you may buy, specially treated for the purpose. Then forget that tedious polishing business. This is not only a time-saver in the home, but is a wise plan to follow if storing silver before going on vacation.

Silver jewelry also may be wrapped in this tissue and kept shining bright. At any time when not on the feet, evening slippers of metal cloth should be wrapped in such paper to prevent tarnish.

Easy Window Washing
THE easiest way is the best as far as washing windows is concerned. In order to keep the glass panes clean and shining, household experts recommend a solution made by adding a little kerosene to a thick soap paste. This should be applied to the windows with a clean cloth or sponge and then rinsed away with clear, hot water. A small rubber hose is convenient for rinsing the exterior.

Squeegees help to dry the windows and to prevent streaking. The long-haired variety save unnecessary bending and reaching. To add a final polish to the windows rub them thoroughly with old newspapers or a clean piece of chamois.

Cottage Light
IT is no fun in some ways to live one's self so far from civilization. In the summer that the spot is clear off the beaten track of electricity. For then candles, lanterns and lamps keep the housekeeper busy. The worst problem is lighting the porch at night or the approach to the cottage.

Some ingenious soul brought an ordinary old-fashioned lantern of the inexpensive kind and gave it a gay coat of lacquer, which made it sufficiently decorative not to offend the eye. This was such a success hanging beside the door that she put a second lantern up, flanking the entrance. With this thought in mind, one may have lacquered lanterns to spare you time and energy.

all girls should

TALKING to a roomful of high school girls on personal hygiene, an experienced district nurse said: "One of the basic rules of health for girls is to keep the system functioning naturally at all times. Normal exercise and diet habits should be encouraged. But when necessary there's no harm in taking nujol, since it works mechanically and can't disturb the normal functions of any organ of the body. Particularly with girls, there are times when nujol should always be taken. Take a spoonful every night for a few days. It's a thoroughly safe and harmless method. It won't cause distress or gas pains or griping." Nujol is different from any other substance. It contains no drugs or medicine. It can be taken safely no matter how you are feeling because it is so pure and harmless, and works so easily. Every woman should keep a bottle on hand. Every druggist has this remarkable substance. ## SHERIFF SAVES NEGRO FROM LYNCHERS

Vaughan. His face was scratched and his clothing stained crimson. Forcing the negro to lie down in the back of his open motor car, the sheriff speeded toward the border. In passing the Vaughan farm, McKinney was forced to drive thru a crowd of more than 100 persons gathered in front of the house. They were clamoring for the attacker.

The mob did not realize until later that Sheriff McKinney had the negro in his car.

Riot Seen

Tonight the streets of this small wheat-farming community were crowded with men expressing determination to find where Lee had been taken and to lynch him.

Prominent citizens and officials, however, mingled with the crowd and pleaded that the law be permitted to take its course.

Sheriff McKinney could not be found.

The attack took place in the Vaughan farm, 12 miles south of here. Only Mrs. Vaughan and a small daughter were at home when the negro approached the house. When he threatened the woman she sent her little girl to the fields in search of the husband.

The negro then evidently beat Mrs. Vaughan. She was unconscious when help arrived and died soon afterward at a Shamrock hospital.

Jails Empty In Summer

SAN LEANDRO, July 11.—UP—"When the city jail is empty, you will know that summer is here," quotes Patrolman Henry Bradow, custodian of the guest book for the city jail.

During the month of June the city was host to only two of the famous tribe of "Wandering Willies," which is a marked contrast to the previous months. In January the city entertained 55 of the gentlemen, in February the number decreased to 22 and during April and May a total of 11 sampled the cuisine of the city.

"We don't need calendars here, because if the weather holds out and things run true to form we will not have to accommodate a single applicant during the months of July and August," remarked the room clerk.

Woman Record Aviator Has Narrow Escape

SAN DIEGO, July 11.—UP—A narrow escape from death was experienced today by Ruth Alexander, 25 year old flier, who lost consciousness high in the air while attempting to establish a new world's altitude flight for women in light airplanes.

Miss Alexander, flying a 90 horsepower monoplane, felt herself "fading away" when her oxygen supply gave out at about 25,000 feet, she said.

She put the plane in a dive and was revived at 18,000 feet by the cold air.

Recently Miss Alexander flew to 18,000 feet, a record for women in light planes. This time, she said, her barograph should record about 25,000 feet. It will be sent to Washington for calibration.

Man Buries Five Friends

FRESNO, July 11.—UP—Twenty years ago when Steve Baker was 60 and a man of means, one of his five cronies, all in poor circumstances, died.

Baker bought a cemetery plot large enough for six graves and paid for his friend's funeral and burial.

He promised to see that each of the others likewise had "decent" burial.

Time passed and Baker kept his promise as his friends died, one by one, despite the fact that adversity had struck him.

Today Baker is 80 years old and himself a poor man. Several times he has been convicted of offenses. His latest was a charge of liquor possession.

Baker, penniless and unable to work, merely sits and stares off into space, apparently hoping that when the time comes someone will accord him the same favor of private burial that he has given others.

A little known Japanese herb, the discovery of an eminent German scientist (Dr. Stickel) instantly soothes the corn, callous or wart, then loosens it so that shortly you can lift it right out. This new discovery called "Corn Fly" excites the white blood corpuscles to action, and granulates the corn at its root so that it drops out and leaves no trace of scar or soreness.

You will also find "Corn Fly Foot Bath Powder" a boon for sore, tired or perspiring feet.

"Corn Fly" for corns, 35c. "Corn Fly Foot Bath Powder" 25c, and "Corn Fly Bunion Remedy" 50c. (all three—$1.10 value for $1.00), are sold under a positive money-back guarantee by Hi-Gene Co., Newark, N. J., or local druggist.

$295,000,000 FOR PIPE LINES

KANSAS CITY, July 11.—UP—Expenditure of $295,000,000 in this district, expected to be in full blast shortly, will make Kansas City the center of eight new pipe line projects, transporting crude oil, gas and gasoline from Oklahoma and the Panhandle to the east.

This huge sum constitutes what is said to be the greatest pipe line expansion in history and will put more than 6,900 miles of new pipe underground.

Two projects will pipe refined gasoline to the east with a terminal here. A river front terminal also is provided for to serve tankers when Missouri river navigation work is completed.

Two of the projects will pipe crude oil, one as far east as Pittsburgh. Four will supply gas in the middle west as far north as China and Milwaukee.

At the present there are four crude oil lines from the Midcontinent fields, to Chicago. There are no natural gas lines and no gasoline lines.

The Doherty - Insull - Standard project to Chicago and Milwaukee is the largest of the planned pipe lines. This line will run from near Pampa, Texas, through Kansas to Omaha, thence east to Chicago, Gary and Milwaukee. It will be 900 miles in length and cost $110,000,000. Built of 24-inch pipe, it will carry more than 100,000,000 cubic feet of gas daily.

The $40,000,000 project of the Missouri - Kansas Pipe Line company is second, and will run from the Texas Panhandle to Indianapolis, crossing Kansas, Missouri and Illinois. With feeder lines, this will be 125 miles in length, but only 780 without. Twenty-two inch pipe will be used.

Union Gulf Corporation, subsidiary of Gulf Oil of Pennsylvania, will spend $30,000,000 for the construction of 1500 miles of piping from Cushing, Okla., to Pittsburgh, via Toledo and Cincinnati, to carry crude oil.

Two refined gasoline lines are included in the program. One of these will be constructed by the Barnsdall interests and the other by the Phillips Pipe Line company. The Phillips line will run from Borger, Texas, to Wichita, Kansas, Kansas City and St. Louis—a total length of about 800 miles.

Barnsdall will build a 6 and 8 inch gasoline system from Okmulgee, Okla., to Milwaukee, costing $8,000,000.

The Ajax Pipe Line company, a subsidiary of the Standard of New Jersey, Tidewater Oil and the Tidal Oil companies, will carry the crude oil from Cushing, Okla., to Wood River, Ill., for refining in two lines, each 400 miles long, and costing $4,000,000.

A natural gas line from Steven county, Kas., to Omaha, and probably on to St. Paul, is now under construction, and will cost about $21,000,000 and is about 700 miles in length. The Kansas Pipe Line and Gas Company, the Insull-Studabaker interests, will start a 300 mile line from the Kansas oil pools to Nebraska towns.

TRANSAMERICA WILL CUT MELON

NEW YORK, July 11.—UP—Transamerica corporation, whose stock has dropped sharply on New York and San Francisco exchanges issued a statement to stockholders tonight giving its 1929 balance sheet and disclosing that the company has acquired important holdings since January 1.

The statement, after reviewing the corporation's position said:

"It would be lacking in ordinary business prudence to ignore the fact that current market conditions and the generally prevailing economic situation make it unreasonable to expect the corporation for the immediate future to duplicate the considerable earnings realized during the past several years from the purchase and sales of securities."

"Accordingly the management will recommend to the board of directors that the October dividend be 25 cents a share, believing that a conservative dividend policy is in the best interest of the corporation and its stockholders."

The 40 cent dividend rate, however will be adhered to for the July 25 disbursement, the statement added.

STOCK HITS NEW LOW ON MARKET

PICK UP Transamerica

SAN FRANCISCO, July 11.—UP—Transamerica corporation stock closed at 23 7/8 on the San Francisco stock exchange today after dropping to 22, a new low for the year.

After holding steady during the early morning trading the stock began to drop shortly before the New York stock exchange closed.

It had closed Thursday at 26 1/2. Sales today totaled 126,000 shares with a valuation of over $3,000,000.

Local officials of the corporation said there was no reason for the "sacrifice" of the stock at existing prices. They said they had been in communication with the New York office by telephone and a statement was being prepared.

Birthplace Of Lindbergh Now Up For Sale

DETROIT, July 11.—UP—The little frame house in which C. A. "Charlie" Lindbergh, as he was then known, was born, is for sale with no takers. The price is $12,500, and it includes the bronze tablet which marks the spot as Lindy's birthplace.

A year ago the Swedish Engineering Society made a down payment on the structure, thereby apparently settling the controversy which has stormed about it sporadically since that memorable day when the "Lone Eagle" glided down to fame on Le Bourget air field in Paris.

The society planned to use the house as a meeting place and also to make of it a museum of Lindberghiana, by collecting as many as possible of the objects associated with the flier and his noteworthy flight. But it has been discovered that the neighborhood is too noisy for the intense concentration necessary to meetings of engineers, and the society has regretfully returned the house to its owners.

Some time ago a Chicago promoter tried to buy the place and make of it a museum with a gate fee, but was halted by the owner. Later, considerable excitement was caused by the discovery that the tenant occupying the house at that time had covered the significant bronze tablet with a "Rooms For Rent" sign.

So today the birthplace of Col. Charles Lindbergh is for sale for $12,500—$1,500 down.

Appeals Made

Two appeals were being drafted to President Hoover and Attorney General Mitchell, one by the San Francisco Retail Service and the other by the MacMillan Petroleum corporation at Los Angeles.

With motorists paying 7 to 15 cents in San Francisco, 5 to 9 cents in Fresno, and the eastbay prices, including Richmond remaining at 12 to 14 cents, the threat of "gift gas" was made if the war was not ended. Some dealers in various parts of the state even offered to sell the gas for 3 cents a gallon, the amount of the state tax.

BE PREPARED FOR OPPORTUNITIES

Opportunities have a way of presenting themselves to those who are prepared. It is the sum of ready money at the right time that builds a home, starts a business, buys a partnership, lays the foundation of a fortune, or in one way or another puts one on the high road to independence.

Getting ahead is largely a matter of getting started saving. Many persons promise themselves to start saving, but wait until they determine how much they have left after spending. Here is a suggestion: instead of saving what is left after spending, plan to spend what is left after saving. The important thing is to begin today.
